the use of Mediation to settle your dispute.

Explanation of Mediation

Mediation is a voluntary process that brings disputing parties together in a neutral setting to resolve issues. Once the session starts, the mediators facilitate the discussion, ask questions, and write up any agreement the parties reach. The mediators are not judges and do not impose a solution. The parties themselves decide on the actual agreement. The mediator is there to help the parties. Each party receives a copy of the agreement. Because the agreement reflects decisions made by the participants, mediated agreements enjoy high rates of compliance.

Mediations can be promptly scheduled at the parties' convenience in a neutral setting at a chosen time and day.

You may contact one of the programs listed or another mediation provider of your choice.
